The official announcement of the increase of the capital of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad will be given by a printed circular, which will be endorsed in the same envelope with the dividend check, both will be mailed on June 29. The option to subscribe will expire September 1, and expires October 1. The transfer books will be closed September 1. The first payment of 50 per cent. will be due October 1. At the time of making the subscription the stockholder will be given the option to make the final payment in three, six or nine months from October 1, but must file his notice at time of making the first payment on which one of the three periods he will make the second and final payment. Interest on the deferred payment will be charged at the rate of 8 per cent., which equals the dividend rate.

The transfer books of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad closed on Saturday for a semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent. on the preferred stock.

On Saturday of this week the Boston and Albany railroad will pay a quarterly dividend of 2 per cent.; the Providence and Worcester railroad will pay a quarterly dividend of 2 1/2 per cent., and the transfer books of the Wells, Fargo & Co. close for a semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent., payable July 15.

The Bell Telephone company will pay a dividend of 4 1/2 per cent. July 15. On Friday next the transfer books of the Rock Island railroad will close for a quarterly dividend of 50 cents, payable August 1.

To-morrow the transfer books of the United States Rubber company close for the semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent., payable July 15.

JUMPED FROM THE WINDOW.
Novel Mode of Escape of Sunday Liquor Law Violators.

Patrolmen Clancy and Londrigan of the Grand avenue precinct had a peculiar experience while discharging their duty about 5:30 o'clock last evening. For some time complaints have been received at the Grand avenue precinct that John DeAngelo, who keeps a saloon at 592 Grand avenue, was violating the Sunday liquor law.

Yesterday afternoon Officers Clancy and Londrigan were detailed on the case and visited the saloon in question. They found the saloon all tightly closed and no sign of any business being carried on. The officers, however, happened to glance upward and saw DeAngelo and three or four other men in the act of drinking in a room over the saloon.

The officers immediately dashed upstairs and into the room, but the birds had flown. With them had disappeared the sash of one of the windows. The men, when they heard the officers approaching, jumped through the second story back window, taking the sash with them a distance of about fifteen feet. Evidently none of the men were hurt, for when the officers discovered the manner in which they had made their rapid disappearance there was no trace of them in the back yard. Only the sash was left in the yard, the men having disappeared as completely as though the earth had opened and swallowed them up. The officers found several full and several empty larger beer bottles in the room, and reported the facts in the case to the Grand avenue precinct.

OBITUARY.
Death of Lewis Hotchkiss After a Short Illness.

Lewis Hotchkiss of this city died at a private sanitarium in Cromwell, Conn., at an early hour yesterday morning, in his forty-fifth year. The deceased was a son of the late Joseph T. Hotchkiss, who was a prominent and esteemed citizen and who at his death left the son a handsome fortune. The mother of Lewis resided for years in the house on Temple street which is now the home of the Monticello club. Young Lewis was years ago secretary for some time of the G. F. Warner Malleable Iron company and interested financially in the drug business on Chapel street. Latterly he was in the insurance business, connected at one time with the office of Carson & Burton. He was a son-in-law of Judge Edward I. Sanford of this city, and leaves a wife and one son, who is aged about thirteen years. The deceased was of a very genial, social and companionable disposition, devoted to his friends, and a generous-hearted man. His property, which was at one time considerable, was much lessened by business investments, which at first promised well, but proved unprofitable. The deceased was about town in his usual health about two weeks ago, but was attacked with nervous prostration and went to Cromwell hoping to obtain relief.
